The XXVIIIth Annual Pennsylvania Hospital Vascular Symposium is a one and a half day course under the direction of Keith Calligaro, MD, Matthew Dougherty, MD, and Doug Troutman, DO. Vascular experts from esteemed medical centers across the country will each present a 10-minute topic. The program provides the most up-to-date open surgical and endovascular management of vascular disease. A very popular part of the meeting is case presentations during each session with active, lively participation by audience members and the experts, which is both entertaining and informative. Vascular fellows are invited to attend (free registration) and present case presentation abstracts. The Second Annual Non-Invasive Vascular Laboratory Symposium is a half-day course.
