JVS Looking for Social Media Editor

Request for Applications

Assistant Editor of Social Media and Press Releases of the Journal Vascular Surgery Publications

This editorial position is new for the JVS Journals, and the applicant would begin Jan. 1, 2017. The criteria for selection include an excellent understanding of social media platforms and evidence of scholarly activity through peer-reviewing and publishing. Prior service on the editorial board of the Journal of Vascular Surgery is preferable.

The individual must be an active or senior member in the Society for Vascular Surgery. This position requires writing short press release articles for the SVS Journals. This position will also be responsible for drafting Facebook, Twitter and LinkedIn posts to promote journal content and responding to on-line questions or comments at regular intervals, with input from one of the editors, if needed.

An annual financial stipend is provided for this position. If interested, please submit your name and a brief summary of qualifications by email by October, 2016 to Jessica McEwan, JVS managing editor at: jmcewan@vascularsociety.org.

Sincerely,

Peter Gloviczki, MD
