

SVS members in the news

SVS members in the news

By Beth Bales

Richard Lynn, MD, a vascular surgeon from Palm Beach, Florida, has been elected second vice-president-elect of the American College of Surgeons (ACS).

Alan Dardik (right), MD, of Yale University School of Medicine, New Haven, Connecticut, and Andres Schanzer, MD, of the University of Massachusetts Medical School, Worcester, are the new president and president-elect, respectively, of the New England Society for Vascular Surgery (NESVS).

S. Ahmed Hussain, MD, of Toledo, Ohio, a native of Pakistan who has lived in the United States for nearly 60 years, has written an autobiography entitled, "A Tapestry of Medicine and Life."

Article Date: Monday, November 9, 2020

Author: Re-posted from the November 2020 issue of Vascular Specialist

Tags: Vascular Specialist

Article Type: Article